Student Conduct, Dress and Appearance

Provide a safe, positive, inclusive and healthy environment for learning. Purpose is to move from zero tolerance to focus on learning, and reduce missed class time. Aligned new policy with digital citizenship, illegal substances policies and dangerous behavior policy.

Dress and Appearance. There are a variety of popular clothing styles that may be inappropriate. The focus will be on learning and relationships and reducing out of class time, remove ambiguous language (modest, immoral). Clothing will be prohibited when it draws undue attention and disrupts, endangers health or is an attempt to be insubordinate. It shall be suitable for the day's activities. Shall be free of lewd, vulgar, promotes violence, advocates something illegal, signifies gang affiliation, is pornographic.

Specific standards: clean and in good repair, provides adequate coverage. Footwear is required at all times. Hats and headwear may be worn unless it disrupts, or is dangerous. A lot of questions about hats. Darrel explained that they found that schools that allow hats haven't been having problems and schools trying to enforce hat rules were having more issues. A lot of time has been spent policing dress code.

Summary: emphasis on student learning environment, seeks to be gender neutral, removes or clarifies language, parent-centric policy. Public feedback is welcome by emailing dresscode@jordandistrict.org The change is being proposed because of the time spent trying to enforce dress codes. Is it worth the battle and missed class time to enforce these policies?

Student Code of Conduct:

Responsibility, respect, kindness, and safety. Outlines how these things can be applied in different areas of the school. No changes have been made from last year. Outlines positive consequences, consequences for not following rules, reporting process and education process for students, parents, faculty, and teachers. Policy can be read in its entirety on the website. Kim moves to approve the code of conduct. Alysha seconds. Motion approved. Brian asked if we can possibly get this info before the meeting so we can review it ahead of time.

Overview of Wellness Policy:

Wellness.jordandistrict.org has a lot of resources for parents and educators. We have a school Psychologist, Rex Prescott. He and other psychologists teach at Jordan Family Education Center. Classes are offered for parents as well. There are also district psychologists who can speak with kids for up to 6-8 possibly free sessions. Staff is trained on mental health issues and what to look for. Recess and PE are used as very minimal consequences. Teachers are directed not to keep kids in to finish work unless it's been agreed upon by the parent.

Fundraiser:

- Wasatch savings books.
- Teachers will pass out the books to the kids.
- The cost will be $30 and we get half of it.
- We need volunteers Friday Oct 1, at 9:00.
- If teachers can put it in their emails and Cherie can send a skylert about the fundraiser. It will end October 15.
